ABSTRACT:

Unlike most communities, the aboriginal community in Australia lead a different life in Torres Strait islands as the European settlers had them in their control, the birth mothers were never allowed to feed their new born babies as it will create a bond between them. This rational fear of mothers that want to keep their child will be banished and killed in most cases. When an aboriginal child is born, it is directly abducted by the government to become a slave for the whites. This was legal under all the morals, segregation was legal, slavery was legal and so separating the mother and child was legal too. Many of the European settlers started to use legality as a guide to morality. It took them generation and generation to understand that legality will never equal to morality. The people of the community went by, "Challenge Authority! All Authority" this killed almost half of the population. The community always wanted to cultivate a society that prioritizes love and harmony over animosity and conflict, while a baby is born the major nutrient is absorbed through liquid gold also known as breastmilk. Through thick and thin the war proceeded to save their children. Most women of that time where kept in cages so they don't potentially escape the wards. This was a cunning way that the British maintained to grow their slave community.

INTRODUCTION:

Majority of the woman who birth, were always given birth under trivial conditions, they are not shown any form of professional help, no mid wives to get them through to postpartum depression. The milk was mostly used for the native medical conditions as medicines for number of diseases. The right of a mother was taken away at that point, which cannot be questioned by anyone. As most woman was out of the habit of feeding their children, they have started to die from unknown diseases. Even after the increased death rates, the British refused to care about what was happening around them. Unless they realized the lack of woman who were around them for birthing slaves for the, the children were trained to work the most difficult jobs which even the British refused to perform in most cases. Handling hot tar and ploughing was few to pick up name in this scenario.

OBJECTIVE:

Gaining the attention of White supremacist has never worked or ended well in most cases, sitting in one's land and ruling them over taking all of their belonging including their birth right was not a fair game under any circumstances. When they started to take the children for grooming the only thing that comes to their mind is free labour, getting effective work done by them along with which, they did prostitution with the young woman of the community. It was forceful in almost all cases which brought them plenty of money. Earning money by the government and still not being taxed was the highest achievement for the Whites, on the other hand the people who were working for minimum to low wages were levied heavy charges. But however the rates of aboriginal to non-aboriginal breastfeeding rates were high to low. The rates were calculated based on post British era which definitely made huge changes. The fallout of the era was the best thing that happened to the aboriginal community considering the plenty they have gone through. The initial research found out most mothers had to pump their milk and provide it to their children secretly or else they will be executed. But the British found this way of feeding so they had to remove the child from the mother as soon as they are given birth, the mothers in most cases are not treated, the umbilical cord is not even cut with sanitized products, they just use their hands and rip it off. The entire set of generation was simply called "Stolen Generation" for this fact, not everyone entertained this behavior, this was a part of making the first nations vanish from the history of Australia to keep it as a white land.

Slow pace work, day after day the British became arrogant towards the blokes of the land. No one from the aboriginal community had the guts to raise their voice towards them, they were scared of getting executed. This fear kept them in their gates of slavery, this has costed them losing their children in return, the taxes they were given for existing in their own home was beyond line. This defines how powerful the machinery they owned for attacking the people that used handmade weapons, the commitment they had for colonizing land after land made them the most powerful domination in the world. From establishing trade to stealing babies they were renowned for their miseries throughout. The stealing brought them and humbled while all the places that they set their lands fumbled and crashed.

After segregating the people, the mothers have been killed due to the illness, the whites gave the family no chance to go through the fault on their side, they blamed the community for not feeding them enough even after declining the medical forces to take care of them. The lack of medical guidance has ripped the health of several woman and infants, the mediocre treatment provided by mid wives during that age, they took a very huge rage by slapping and abusing the black women while they were giving birth. They went through all of this just because they wanted to hold their child in their hands, but due to the legal rules, they take away their new born away in no time, this caused immeasurable pain to the birth mothers. Usually they do not keep the birth mother and the new born in the same place as they knew it creates ruckus among both the black and the white community, as men of the community tend to sneak in and steal their own children to bring back to the actual homes where they belonged. So, they ruthlessly carry the children around the continent in no proper care, this triggered many people. Stating this the British had no idea of how to take care of the infants as they are usually sent along to the institutions along with the armed soldiers for further protection to avoid getting killed in the middle of the journey. Most common procedure that was done later on was these children were kidnapped at a very young age and left as orphans during their teen age, which caused them to become thieves. Sliding from stealing in most cases from higher authorities to the poor, the blacks saw no mercy. The whites refused to take responsible for their irresponsible behavior. This brought in chaos among the community, the negligence of this behavior was rough even the innocents were put behind the bars when there were no potential cases for them to take and proceed. The minimum wage provided for the community did not meet the needs that they had to provide for the family, especially for their pregnant wives.

IMPORTANCE:

The greater number of people who got involved in the process of separation is high, from the government officials to the crowns got involved, they treated these children so bad that they used to throw pennies at that children in institution like they were feeding ducks in a pond. The way which the rich behaved towards these children has no way of explaining this act and talk positive about themselves. Crown supremacy had the innumerable death count in every place that they set their terrible marks in all places. When the baby is born the direct district takes away the infant and does not even let the new born and mother have skin to skin, this has caused syndromes to the children, which they mentioned as unnamed disease, due to lack of medical knowledge during that age. The more aboriginal and stolen generation people open up about their traumas to the new generation we get to understand the deep routed pain, the softer spot one has earned is the more the hate deep routes for another.

On the other hand, the greater number of people are dead, the government had to hide it from the general public as no one cared enough, hundreds of dead infants thrown or fed to the wild. They called the natives barbaric as they couldn't follow simple mannerisms like the Europeans. This created an epic radiation of people going on strike as they saw how their roots being abolished while the children of the rich getting an extreme opposite treatment and the natives becoming nannies for them, this gave them a sense of fear, the lives of white children were in the hands of blacks but still the children were treated in a better way than the whites could ever imagine, this was not because they were scared for their lives, this was because they had a hope that some other day their children will also be treated the same. They wanted the kids to have a warm home, they provided it.

The toxic pattern that they have created with one another has wrecked so many families and killed huge number of children. Not only they restricted the food of infants, but also killed the wildlife so the natives do not get any food, this was a major step as mother nature provided food for her children of the land. They had hunt down every animal that was roaming around in the sets of Australian land. The people who did not follow the commands of the Europeans were also shot to death. Similar occurrences have happened all around the world and made life tough for people in every other continent they had to go.

CONCLUSION:

No matter how much the whites has taunted and haunted the natives, irrespective of it, they treated the children of the white in a way no one got hurt or felt unsafe, there was not a single case filed against them for being a bad personality. But still they found ways to frame the people and put them behind the bars of the. They were stopped from feeding and latching their new born babies was the baseless cruelty they did for everyone of the community, the explanation where this cruelty was justified is not found, the treatment they provide for indigenious community is just another name for making one's life miserable. Upcoming generation should know black people were slaved and not enslaved, as all the texts shows us about two different oppression in humanity, they should not believe that slavery was in them it is just that continent where whites rooted the system of slavery throughout. The racial wage gap would have come to an end if the British corrected their act and stood by their words. Due to their unacceptable behavior, many lives have been lost in the journey which has not ended even after centuries. The way people still misuse Luther's quotes against the community shows us how the people have been kept in brain cages and never had a chance to think outside the box.
